

Annual Report

2020

2020 was a year like none other. Looking back, we achieved a great deal in an unprecedented time, amidst a pandemic, social unrest, and the 2020 Election, all while working remotely. Together, we secured important victories to protect North Carolina's environment and stopped harmful environmental rollbacks. This progress is due to your continued generous support. In 2020, we:

1. Won the fight to clean up coal ash in North Carolina.
2. Held Chemours accountable for their decades of PFAS (forever chemical) contamination into the Cape Fear River.
3. Deepened and expanded our environmental justice work to address statewide systemic change.
4. Fought former President Trump's attempts to weaken enforcement of longstanding environmental protections here in North Carolina.

In 2021, we'll continue to work for environmental justice and equity, advancements in clean energy and climate resilience, regulation of pollution from CAFOs (Confined Animal Feeding Operations), and the clean-up of forever chemicals. Together, we'll protect North Carolina's environment and public health.
